

Chile Temple booth at Grand Canyon Conference

Contributed by
Friday, 12 January 2007
Last Updated Thursday, 12 April 2007

The 22nd annual Grand Canyon Bahá'í Conference was held in Phoenix, Arizona this December. With a grand total of 3,000 people in attendance, the vendor and bookstore area was brimming with excitement and anticipation for this year's new Bahá'í arts, crafts, jewelry, and of course, books.

There were also the non-vendor booths in the vendor area, including a booth from the Campaigns Office of the Bahá'í National Center. The booth volunteers spent time handing out informational sheets and packets of information on the various ways to contribute to the Kingdom Project and Chilean Temple. Also at the booth were the highly popular new Chile Temple silicone wristbands, in a variety of patterns and colors, sporting the phrase "Build the Temple of Light...www.chilean-temple.org."

Friends continually gathered around the Campaigns Office booth, seeking new information about the Chilean Temple and the new Visitors Center at the House of Worship in Wilmette, IL. With an abundance of youth and young adult participation behind the booth, it was an overall success and visitors left with new information to take back to their communities.